

Loading Crew Info and Departure Times

We may or may not be playing pregame from game to game. To be on the safe side, we should plan on playing pregame for all the games, it's always easier to move the reporting times back. Making plans around means that our performance time will be around 7:05. I will call the other schools this week to see what we can plan on. One way or the other we will still want to be there about an hour early to each game.

Load crew should probably plan to be at the band room around 15 to 20 min early to have time to get the trailer into position for most games and maybe 30 min early for the first game. Whatever time you guys feel comfortable setting for the load crew is fine with me or we can just tell them to be there 20 earlier than the student report time.
